Ethics for Mediators and Users of Mediation -
How to Ethically Switch Hats from Other Professions

Thursday, April 12, 2012

10 am – 3 pm

Lunch Included

At the MCMC offices

3075 Ridge Pike, Suite B,

Eagleville, PA 19403

(Ida Mascaro Bldg. Office entrance faces Church Rd., lower level)

Workshop Description:

This four hour course is designed for lawyers, social workers, business people and other professionals who serve as mediators, or who represent clients in mediations. Prior mediation training is NOT a prerequisite.

You will learn:

- A brief overview of the mediation process and ethics;
- To be an ethically aware mediator and user of mediation services;
- To distinguish between your role as a professional and the role of the mediator;
- Why it matters;
- What the Model Standards say about being an ethical mediator;
- How confidentiality statutes and ethics intersect;
- Confidential “war stories” - the good, the bad and the ugly;
- The art of gracefully and ethically switching hats when you wear more than one.

This will be an interactive workshop with role plays, a panel discussion and examples of “do’s and don’ts” in helping you navigate the potentially bumpy road of mediation ethics for professionals, whether as a mediator or as a user of mediation services.

Cost: $135 plus $20 for 4 C.L.E. ethics credits. Add $15 if a NASW member or $25 if a non-member for 4 PA Social Work C.E.C.’s.

Registration Deadline: April 5, 2012
